

Village of Unadilla Restores Dilapidated Roof

The Village of Unadilla's Community Center, which was formerly the village's school, needed a new roof on the space that was over the gym, kitchen and stage. The roof in this area was leaking and destroying the woodwork on the ceilings, stage and bleachers.

The village knew the roof had to be repaired but did not know the extent of the damage. When the initial estimates for this project came in, the board thought they would be able to complete the repairs on their own. Looking closer, they realized that there was more damage than originally suspected, which quadrupled the costs.

USDA Rural Development provided $10,900 in grant funds combined with $5,000 from the Unadilla Community Foundation and $52,100 from the village, to pay for the needed roof repairs.

With the new roof, the village is able to continue holding community events in this building, including tournaments for both basketball and volleyball games. It has been able to utilize the facility without the worry of leaks from the weather or any continued damage to the wood. The project was completed in November 2015.
